

The Sunday Star.

WASHINGTON, D. C., JUNE 4, 1922.

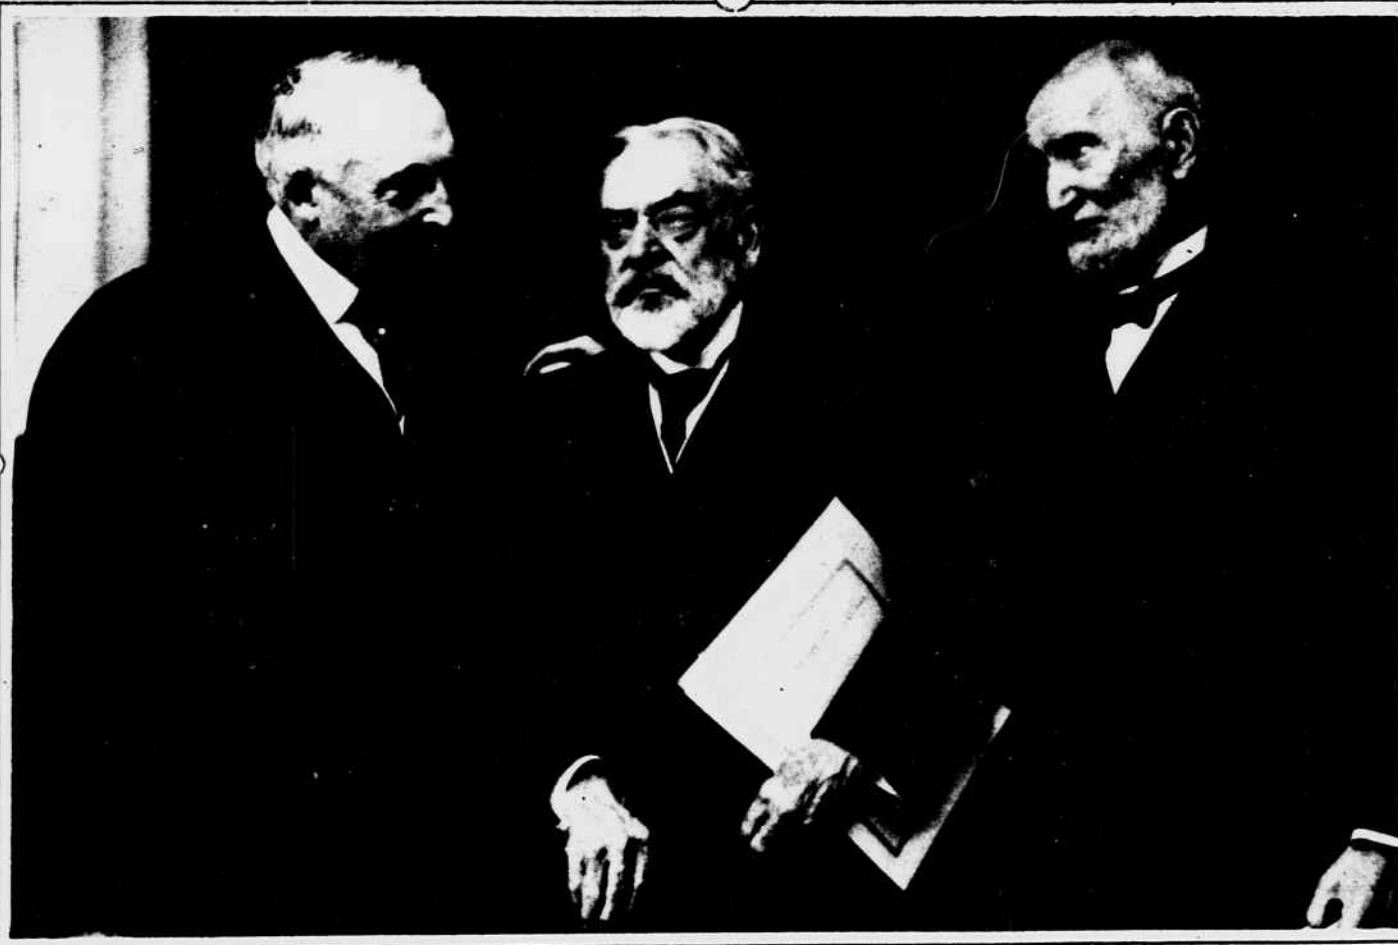

During The Dedication Ceremonies Of
The Lincoln Memorial Last Tuesday

Photo by International

President Harding delivering address at the Memorial dedication. His voice was heard by thousands all over the United States by use of the radio.

National Photo.

President Harding, Robert "Todd" Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln, and "Uncle Joe" Cannon, photographed at the Memorial dedication. "Uncle Joe" once ran on the same ticket with the Great Emancipator.

Harris & Ewing

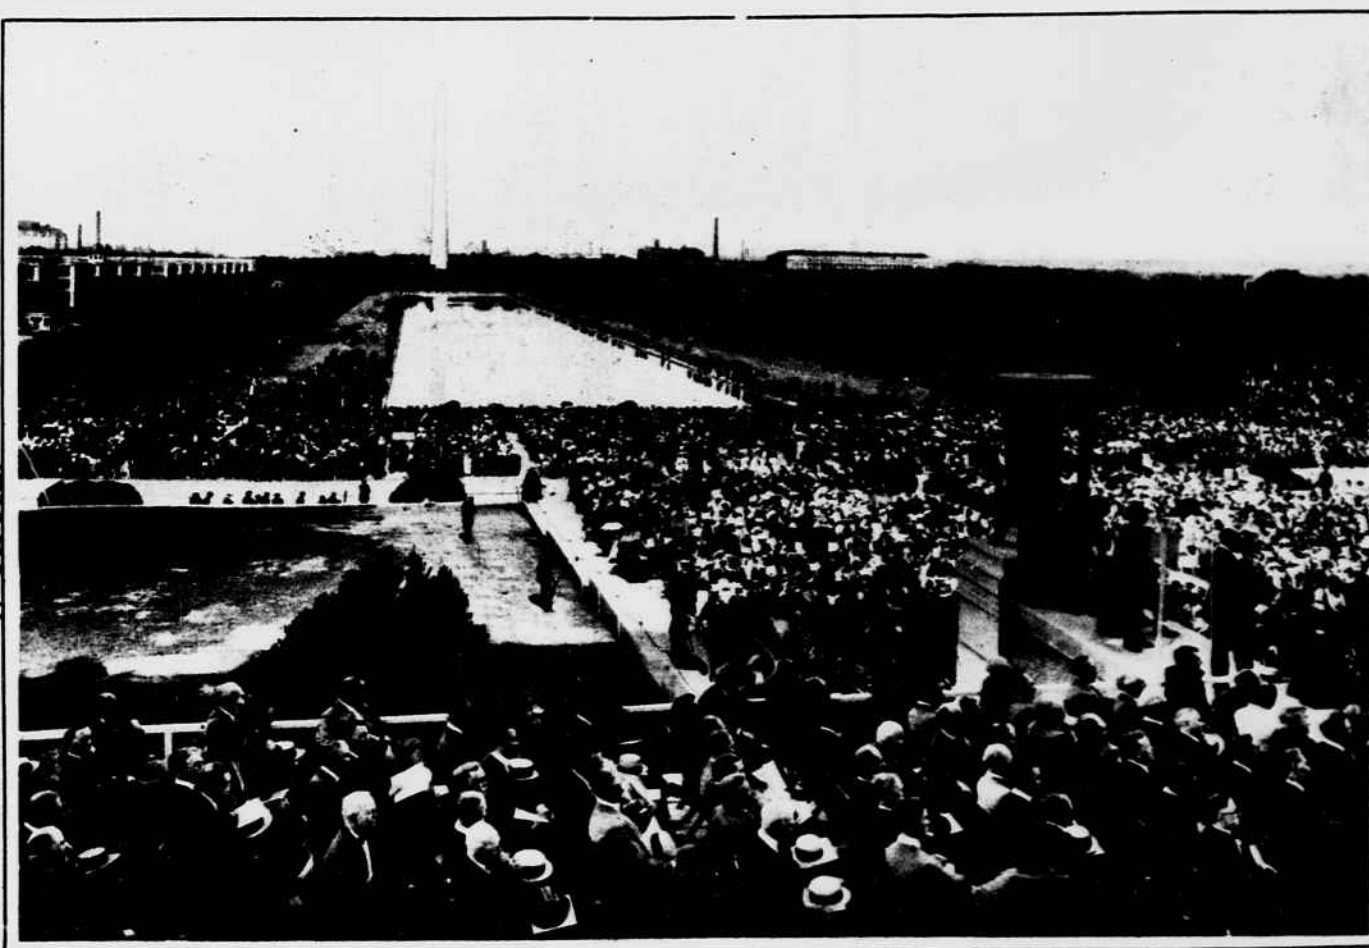

An unusual silhouette, with President Harding delivering his Lincoln Memorial address. Photo snapped from between the Memorial columns.

National Photo.

Ambassador Jusserand of France presenting to President Harding the American flag which was raised on Eiffel Tower, Paris, on April 20, 1917, to celebrate the entrance of the United States in the World War. The ceremony took place in the East Room of the White House on Memorial Day.

National Photo.

Part of the crowd at the dedication of Lincoln Memorial, looking toward the mirror basin and the Washington Monument.

Harris & Ewing